

Coincidences are more likely than you think.

Famous birthday paradox: with 23 people in a room, there's about a 50% chance that some two people have the same birthday.

That's a math prediction; and you can check how well it works with e.g. baseball teams.